

A photograph of a person sitting on a concrete ledge, looking out over a field. The person is wearing a blue jacket and dark pants. The field is filled with tall, dry grasses. In the background, there are some buildings and utility poles under a cloudy sky. The concrete ledge is in the foreground, showing some small plants and a piece of wood.

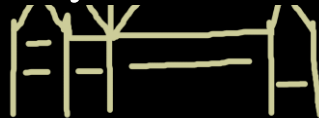

Hedon

A Photographer's Home

Katy Miller

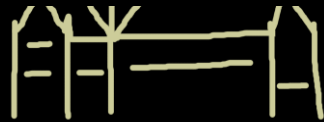

Hedon is a beautiful market town in East Yorkshire with a proud heritage and a lot of green spaces - at its centre stands the magnificent St Augustine's Church, but you only have to look to find plenty more to snap a photo of the oldest parts of the church date back to 1190, but most of what you see is from the 13th and 14th centuries

Ancient

Inspiration

for when you just can't decide which is your favourite

A Wide Open Sky

a sunset
over Hedon
Train
Station

Hedon Airfield, the perfect spot to view the rise of the supermoon in 2016 contrary to popular belief, the following three photos are not sunsets, but a camera with a sepia filter pointed up to a moody sky and then the contrast turned way up - I call them my 'Fire Skies'

In Your Own
Back Yard

for beautiful photographs, you don't always need to look any further than your own gate our very photogenic

Snoop

a mutated
digitalis
purpurea

a fountain
of wisteria floribunda

a stunning
primula
vialii

Always Time for a Little Fun

friends Nick Garbutt
and Kathryn Miller
posing for a 1940s
photoshoot

Kathryn Miller
showing her 1970s side

thank you for reading -

I hope you enjoyed my photographs

